Mum, Dad and Me

My parents grew among palm trees,
in sunshine strong and clear.
I grow in weather that's pale,
misty, watery or plain cold,
around the back streets in London.

Dad swam in warm sea, at my age.
I swim in a roofed pool.
Mum – she still doesn't swim.

Mum went to an open village market at my age. I go to a covered arcade one with her now.
Dad works most Saturdays.

At my age Dad played cricket with friends.
Mum helped her mum, or talked shouting half way up a hill.
Now I read or talk on the phone.

With her friends, Mum's mum washed clothes on a river-stone. Now washing-machine washes our clothes.
We save time to eat to TV¹, never speaking.

My dad longed for freedom in Jamaica.
I want a greater freedom.
Mum prays for us, always.

Mum goes to church
some evenings and on Sundays.
I go to the library.
Dad goes for his darts at the local².

Mum walked everywhere, at my age.
Dad rode a donkey.
Now I take the bus
or catch the underground train.
